A huge splash of colour has arrived in Yandina with close to a thousand brightly coloured umbrellas suspended over the rainforest gardens at the Ginger Factory.

The team, inspired by Tourism Manager Brenda Bailey, collaborated with local artist Sophy Blake to create a joyous explosion of colour, aptly named the Rainbrella Project.

"The Ginger Factory is a place where people can come and enjoy art for art's sake," said Ginger Factory Tourism Manager Brenda

Rainbrella Project brings joy to Ginger Factory

Bailey. "We are a free entry park and this is a public art installation that anybody can come and enjoy. And that, I love."

"It is our hope that being the first artwork of its kind on the Sunshine Coast, the installation brings joy, happiness and peace to all who journey through its colourful paths."

"The artwork explores the theme of hope and new beginnings," said artist Sophy Blake referring to the Covid pandemic. "Historically rainbows are known as a symbol of hope; a symbol that despite the darkness, storms or tribulations of life, can appear, evoking a feeling of peace. With each colour signifying an expression of hope, rainbows bring the promise that the troubles of today will come to pass," she said.

The free installation is made up of nearly 1000 rainbow-coloured umbrellas suspended above the rainforest via a network of interconnected steel structures designed to last.

The stunning display has had guests craning their heads skywards over the past few weeks as it has been installed. It's also proved a practical protection from the unusually wet weather experienced this autumn.

► Visitors can enjoy the Rainbrella Project 7 days a week from 9am to 5pm at The Ginger Factory, 50 Pioneer Road, Yandina.

"It is all systems go for our epic event," said Fair founder and organiser, Laurie Wall.

"On Saturday the 28th of May it will be vintage paradise at the Nambour Showgrounds. The place will be buzzing from 7am until 2pm".

Collectorama has been running for 30+ years and despite the setbacks of the past couple of years, is going strong.

"The Fair has loads of devotees and, if you're new to the area and like vintage goodness, then you're going to love this iconic Fair," Laurie said.

"Whether your thing is vinyl records, vintage toys, mid-century modern, fashion, man-cave stuff or eclectic one off pieces, there's 150 traders so the vast landscape is full of all sorts of collectables and antiques.

"We are already getting loads of enquiry and fans of the Fair can't wait to rummage through the stalls to find all sorts of treasures".

The new Homestead Park playground will be great for local kids like Beau.

Building blocks for cool new Coes Creek playground well underway

THERE will be smiles of delight once the new Homestead Park playground is completed in the coming months at Coes Creek.

Sunshine Coast Council Division 10 Councillor David Law said he was thrilled to see works start on what he said will be a very popular playground in Nambour.

"Council has received a number of requests and I've had many conversations with local residents in this growing area of Nambour for a playground at this park," Cr Law said.

"Families can expect to see a new colourful multi-play tower positioned in the park towards the corner of Rod Smith Drive and Coes Creek Drive.

"Along with the play tower, there will be a double swing set and multi-play rocker which will be a load of fun for the children.

"The new sensory play equipment will be fenced to give parents ease-of-mind while little legs run wild and there's going to be a picnic table to rest and watch the action.

"Another important aspect of this park will be the shade sails, installed to ensure sun safety and the fun continues into the warmer months.

"Outdoor parks and playgrounds like this are a huge benefit and enjoyment for our community long into the future."

The works started early May and are expected to be completed in the coming months, weather and site conditions permitting.

Council grants more than half a million dollars to local community groups

SUNSHINE Coast Council has announced more than $550,000 will support 95 local projects in its latest Major Grants round.

Community Portfolio Councillor David Law said he was proud to see council continue to support a variety of projects which would provide community benefit well into the future.

"It's great to see so many Sunshine Coast community groups receive funding to deliver one-off projects, events and activities which benefit the entire region," Cr Law said.

"The successful funding recipients are certainly making a difference and contributing to our thriving community."

One community group set to benefit is the Maleny and District Men's Shed Incorporation, having been awarded $6394 in the Community Facilities category towards erecting a new shed.

Men's Sheds play an import role in improving men's health and wellbeing by offering an inclusive and safe place for all men from a local community to come together, and by providing important health information.

Maleny and District Men's Shed Incorporation

Secretary Lindsay Hay said he was thrilled the group had received a Major Grant with membership increasing recently.

"Our Men's Shed now has more than 50 members and the funding will go towards erecting a shed recently donated by the Australian Defence Force and allow expansion of the Men's Shed's activities," Mr Hay said.

"Our members are excited to get into alternative activities such as leatherwork, lead lighting, cards and computers, as well as having a breakout space for meals and information sessions."

Cr Law said in this round of funding, there were a lot of important community projects, including youth programs, creative and cultural events, and facility upgrades.

"Council's Community Grants Program acknowledges and strengthens the valuable contribution community groups and their volunteers make towards achieving our shared vision and goal of being Australia's most sustainable region: healthy, smart, creative, while also fostering a strong community," he said.

Local train layout may become a model in mental health care

A model train layout project designed to stimulate aged care residents' memories could become a pilot project for the nation.

The Sunshine Coast Model Railway Club spent seven months completing the twin-track layout for Estia Health Nambour with the help of a Dementia Australia grant and it was delivered last Tuesday.

"It is an incredible piece of art and will be a valuable focal point for our residents here," said Estia Health Nambour spokesperson Wendy May.

"This amazing team of men have done so much work for us to produce this magnificent item. We will be starting a men's group to go with it."

Wendy said the immersive nature of the layout would open up many lines of engagement for residents, especially since it was modelled on local scenes and history.

"The stories that we can tell," she said. "It will help entice people out of their rooms. It's going to bring back memories and encourage engagement. One of our residents is Allan Lanham and his dad started Lanhams Timber and Hardware (now Sunshine Mitre 10) and was deeply involved with the history of Nambour. Allan's going to love this."

The project was funded by a federal government Dementia Engagement Modelling Program (DEMP) for people living with dementia in residential aged care to help with isolation and loneliness.

Secretary of the Sunshine Coast Model Railway Club Paul Downes said his members worked hard on a limited budget to get the best result for the residents. "We've been told this might be the pilot for other model railway clubs and for other aged care homes. That would be wonderful," Paul said.

"Wendy and I developed a brief of what she was looking for: two tracks, one elevated, one low, tunnels and bridges with crossovers.

"We wanted small focus-scenes that could be used to generate discussion and recall and assist with memory and general mental well-being for residents. Another requirement in the brief was the whole thing had to be encased and fully lockable. We had a budget of $3000."

There's even a replica of one of the original cane trains that worked Nambour Sugar Mill back in the day.

"One of our members, Graeme Brooker, did all the 3D printing and the profiles of the mill buildings and the Club Hotel Nambour Central and the cane train.

"He got the plans from the Nambour Museum and recreated from the actual plans, scaled them and 3D printed them," said Paul.

Two HO scale trains – one freight, one passenger – will run from 9am-3pm all day giving residents plenty of time to discover its nooks and crannies.

"Because it was coming to Nambour the team decided outside the original brief 'why not throw in a sugar mill,'" said Paul.

"This has been the first layout that our members have been able to get their teeth into as a whole-club project for quite a while.

"Being able to do something for the residents here has definitely regenerated and rekindled our members' enthusiasm which had waned somewhat during the pandemic. It brought out the best in the guys and they really went the extra mile."

The layout includes cars and trucks, passengers and people and two trains (one freight one passenger).

Nambourians will recognise local landmarks such as Nambour Sugar Mill, Book Exchange, the Club Hotel, Nambour Plaza and the Nambour Golf Club.

Mandy composts her way towards self-sufficiency

MANDY Spooner always wanted enough homegrown vegetables to be self-sufficient, and her new home at Yandina Creek will be the perfect spot.

Mandy, her husband Ellis and their two sons moved from Peregian Springs to their one-acre property last November.

"We've been working towards this for many years," Mandy said.

"Now we're building veggie patches; using rain tanks."

Composting daily food waste was an essential part of her low-waste lifestyle.

Mandy recently installed a simple but high-tech composting system called Subpod from award-winning online ecostore, Go For Zero, which is also based on the Sunshine Coast.

"I'm fairly new to composting and gardening but I have a great composter that sits in the ground and the worms go in and out, fertilising your garden. It's magic!" Mandy said.

This month Mandy celebrated International Compost Awareness Week (May 1-7).

"Waste drives me crazy, and I've been on a mission to replace all the plastic in my house and help others do the same for years," Mandy said.

"I came across Go For Zero - a really great local business - when I was looking for daily essentials that were plastic and completely natural.

"I love that everything Ellie [Go For Zero founder] offers has been tested, I know it's not toxic and she's done the homework to get the most sustainably packaged products too. Even their packages come in a compostable padding and box."

Mandy's family of six (including two dogs) has cut back its household waste so much that their wheelie bin only needs collecting every five weeks.

Mandy Spooner: "Waste drives me crazy, and I've been on a mission to replace all the plastic in my house and help others do the same for years."

"We do empty it every week," Mandy laughed. "But composting is part of keeping that rubbish pile down. I'm really proud of how much we recycle, reuse and just don't buy. If we need something, we try and find an alternative we already own that we could repurpose first."

► Go For Zero has helped 41,000 households transition to sustainable, natural lifestyle since launching in November 2018. This year it was named Queensland's best business for promoting sustainability, in the Telstra Best in Business awards. To find out more visit www.goforzero.com.au

Growing interest in home schooling inspires Mum to set up online directory

Bethan Davies with her homeschooled kids Ewan and Holly and their pet chook and guinea pig.

A growing number of Sunshine Coast families are opting to educate their children at home, according to the founder of a website designed to assist parents do just that.

Homeschool Heart Founder Bethan Davies, of Ilkley, said the numbers of activities available to families became so vast she saw the need for a directory of "all things local and homeschool"

"In the last two years the homeschool community has transformed," Bethan said. "The number of families is much bigger and the connections between business and homeschoolers have grown and developed."

Much of the growth had been a result of parents' opposition to Covid and vaccine mandates. "Many families removed their children following the introduction of masks and the desire not to vaccinate their children," she said.

"Plus during the lockdown schooling-at-home period many parents found that their kids were significantly happier at home."

Bethan said teachers who left the system had begun to create new ways of sharing their knowledge and skills with others. She said with restrictions still in place for the education sector many teachers had opted to go it alone.

"This influx of families and educators has led to changes. Unlike previous homeschooling families, many of the new ones still need days with a drop off option for their kids.

"The numbers of activities available to families has become so big, I created a directory of all things local and homeschool.

"HomeschoolHeart.com.au is a labour of love to share the amazing offerings from people in our local communities. People will find a variety of options available to support our local kids. The creative ways business and families are working together is both heart-warming and inspiring. Homeschoolers are often out and about, learning within our community.

"A growing area is mentorship and skill sharing; local artists, craftspeople and professionals who would love to facilitate a small workshop or be a mentor are able to list on the directory. It feels like the Sunshine Coast and hinterlands are a melting pot of this new layer of education. Flowers are blooming in the mud."

About 350 people gathered in support of live music at Maleny Lane recently.

Talks with Council helps avert Maleny Lane music shutdown

CRISIS talks with the council appear to have helped avert the closure of Maleny's popular live music nights at Maleny Lane.

Organiser Steve McLeish said the Monday night "FrontUp Chalkboard" and Friday Night "Twilight Dinner and Music Night" would continue.

The news follows meetings with Sunshine Coast Council which found that an application for a different licence for the venue might solve the issue.

Mr McLeish said that by operating as a "market" instead of a "food court", it would be permitted to continue its open mic and live entertainment nights.

The Monday and Friday weekly events held in the Maleny Lane were given a recent deadline to shut down after the council received noise complaints.

"I would like to thank the Maleny community for their amazing support," Mr McLeish said.

"We had over 200 letters of support and 4000 signatures on the petition as well as 350 people gathering in support of live music at the Maleny Lane. This indicates the importance of music and arts in our community. Live music creates opportunities for our young people, generates and stimulates wellbeing within the community and benefits the local economy."

Yandina Dental keeps pace with medical advances

BUSINESS WRITUP

YANDINA Dental has been offering family friendly dentistry to Yandina and surrounds since 2016.

The practice changed ownership late in 2021 and Dr Regan Leslie is the new owner and principal dentist at the practice.

Hailing from New Zealand, Dr Leslie graduated from the University of Otago in 2009. He has worked in private practices in New Zealand and on the Coast, but now he, his wife and two young daughters call Yandina home.

"I really enjoy treating people from all walks of life," Dr Leslie said. "I work very hard to help put my patients at ease, and I guess to 'partner' with them about their dental health. It is important to me that my patients have honest, accurate and current information with respect to dental treatment," he said.

"We are living in a time where we are fortunate to have access to wonderful advances in dental technology, especially with regard to pain management.

"You would be surprised by how many people over the age of 45 have been traumatised by childhood dental experiences. I like to think I can help those people to overcome their fears and phobias and make the care of their teeth an enjoyable experience. I have a fantastic team of friendly assistants in my practice who help to relax our patients as well".

Dr Leslie's special interest areas include:

- complex dentistry,
- dental implants,
- Invisalign orthodontics,

- snoring/sleep apnoea appliances,
 - anti-wrinkle injections,
 - wisdom teeth removal,
 - teeth whitening, and
 - crown and bridge-work.
- "Keeping up to date with the latest technology is really vital and I have attended various professional development courses throughout New Zealand, Australia, the United States and South Africa," Dr Leslie said.
- "We believe that a beautiful, healthy smile is something that everybody can enjoy," said Dr Leslie. "And that is the basis for our practice".

When Nambour's baker delivered our daily bread

THIS beautiful calendar, right, titled The Soul's Awakening, was a Christmas gift to customers in 1904 from James Higginson Family Baker.

An advertisement in the Moreton Mail in 1896 read as follows:

James Higginson, baker, delivers First-class bread for cash to any resident within five miles from Nambour.

By 1904, Mr Higginson was the Proprietor of the Nambour Bakery and Railway refreshment rooms in Currie Street "where Hot Tea, Coffee and Cocoa are always ready".

While in 1907, the Chronicle & North Coast Advertiser reported that "James Higginson is still to be found in his refreshment room, where a glass of wine with any kind of baker's small goods can be obtained".

The photo of Higginson's store can also be viewed on one of the windows at the Nambour Museum in Mitchell Street. — Nambour Museum

Hospital volunteers help patients get 'Better Together'

NORM Sparkes has volunteered at Nambour General Hospital for 18 years, making him the longest-serving volunteer with the Sunshine Coast Hospital and Health Service (SCHHS).

Mr Sparkes, who is being acknowledged as part of National Volunteer Week (16-22 May), said there wasn't a coordinated volunteer service when he was looking for something to do after retiring.

"I just went in and said I'm here as a volunteer and if there is anything I can do, I'd be happy to help," he said.

"Back then we were on paper and I helped prepare the medical records folders; I folded clean gowns, guided people around and just did a lot of smaller jobs.

"If you've got time to give, then why not? You might only be there for a few hours, but you can make such a difference to a person's life."

Mr Sparkes said 'frequent flyers' appreciated seeing a familiar and friendly face.

"There was a lady who came regularly to oncology and she would send her driver in to look for me so I could get a wheelchair and take her in. She didn't want the wardie, she wanted me.

"It makes you feel good when people appreciate you like that."

Acting SCHHS Senior Coordinator of Volunteer Services Angela Drew said highly valued volunteers played a vital role in keeping the health service running smoothly.

"They are often the first people visitors encounter at the hospital; they provide practical assistance as well as emotional support and comfort," Ms Drew said.

"Volunteers work alongside medical practitioners, assist nurses and help families on what can be an emotional and tiring journey.

"I would encourage any potential volunteers to consider joining our team."

SCHHS volunteers don't require any formal qualifications, just a friendly disposition and a willingness to learn, as well as a basic level of fitness.

► This year's National Volunteer Week theme is 'Better together'. SCHHS has more than 260 active volunteers who contribute more than 4000 hours of their time each month.

Playwright Mary O'Malley has penned her childhood schooling into a funny and refreshing tale one can so relate to.

Catholic curiosity lands pious Mary in hot water in Lind Lane's latest play

LIND Lane's latest production, Once a Catholic, is set in the 1950s in a girl's convent where almost everyone is named Mary.

The story centres around three girls in the runup to their o-levels.

Two of the girls, played by Amber Taylor and Zahira Kayrooz, are worldly-wise.

But it is the most innately pious Mary Mooney, played by Taylor Rost, who always ends up in hot water. This is partly through a restless curiosity that prompts her to ask awkward questions during class and in the presence of the nuns or the Priest.

During a catechism class, she asks the Priest played by Matthew Taverner "What is the sin of Sodom?"

This innocent question gets poor Mary Mooney sent straight to Mother Thomas Aquinas (played by Victoria McGuin) for punishment.

But it is also a play about sexual ignorance. Mary's mother and, let's face it, most mothers in the 50s didn't explain the facts of life to their children, let alone things like the sin of Sodom!

All this is recorded with painful honesty, and Mary O'Malley the playwright gets a lot of fun out of the unyielding certainties of both Catholics and Protestants.

► The season runs from May 27-June 4 at Lind Lane Theatre 16 Mitchell St Nambour, with bookings now available www.lindlane.com.au/whats-on. Any enquiries 1300 732 764.

Local branch hosts conference

THE Queensland Country Women's Association, QCWA, is in its Centenary Year and there was much to celebrate last Friday and Saturday when members from near and far gathered for their annual Central Region Conference. For many members it was a chance to renew friendships while new friendships were made for debutant Conference Delegates.

The Conference, hosted by the Nambour North Coast Division, welcomed 69 members from as far afield as Moranbah in the north, west to Emerald and all points between to as far south as Beerwah.

The Nambour RSL proved a hospitable venue as delegates enjoyed local presenters from the Sunshine Coast Library Services giving valuable tips around the topic of Digital Safety, the CBA Nambour Branch Manager guiding all through on-line banking and gaining an insight into how to best prepare media releases from the Editor of the Glasshouse & Maleny News.

"Members also took time to discuss important aspects about the Association such as our Centenary Celebrations, the care of our extensive archive collection, our connection with like-minded women from across the world through the organisation of Associated Country Women of the World, and looking forward to where our Association will be in the next 10, 20, 40 years and beyond," said QCWA Nambour & North Coast Division President Patsy Lee.

"A further part of the Central Region Conference is the celebration of our Member's creative talents in the annual Contests of Sewing, Public Speaking, Upcycling Pre-Loved Clothing, Creating a useful article from a tea-towel, Photography and International activities. There were many entries focussing on Pineapples which is the 2022 Primary Product of the Year focus for the QCWA."

The Conference concluded with a Celebratory Dinner and the invitation for the 2023 Conference being issued by the Central Highlands Division.

Church offers range of services for community

Organisation Writeup Sanctuary Park Church of Christ

AS the name suggests, the Sanctuary Park Church of Christ grounds offer "a peaceful, tranquil, welcoming environment".

And anyone who has spent time there will attest that this intention has been truly achieved.

The Sanctuary Park Church of Christ facilities are nestled within a sub-tropical valleyed setting on 13.5 acres in Nambour.

The facilities consist of a glazed featured auditorium that celebrates its surroundings, a Family Centre, a large two storey Shed (ideal for youth work) and an Education Centre which also houses the Sanctuary Park Op Shop and Drop-in Centre.

The two Ministers, Pastor Steve Nixon and Pastor Mark Wall, bring a wealth of experience to both the Sanctuary Park Church community and the community at large.

In line with their commitment to the local community, the Sanctuary Park Church of Christ is a supporter of The Shack in Nambour.

It also provides Chaplaincy and offers professional Christian-based services to clients of all ages and backgrounds, aimed at personal development and growth.

"The church has the Christian responsibility to respond to the evolving needs of its community," explained Pastor Steve.

In recent years, the church has expanded its work to include live streaming of church services (which are available on YouTube and the Church's Facebook page),

It also offers the following services:

- a community-based Mainly Music program, designed to engage children from 0-5 years in music, dance and creative play;
- an open to any fella 'Blokes Coffee and Chips Group' at Cosy Creek Café;

Pastor Mark Wall and Administrative Assistant Jan Simpson at the Sanctuary Park Church of Christ facilities, nestled within a sub-tropical setting on 13.5 acres in Nambour.

- Women on Wednesday (a fortnightly group for women);
- the Drop in Space; and
- the much loved Sanctuary Park Op Shop.

Community program providers also use space within the Education Centre for industry training programs and youth at risk support and training.

The Sanctuary Park Church also seeks to assist vulnerable people in overseas countries to break the cycle of poverty. They partner with communities across the world in education, health, safe water, and livelihood initiatives.

In 2021, the church held a Garage Sale to raise funds for Medical Santo Hospital in Vanuatu. In total, with donations and a Church of Christ Missions Grant, a sum of $22,000 was raised.

Pop Up Garage Sale

This year they are planning a Pop Up Garage Sale, over three days, June 2-4 from 8.30am to 1.30pm, in conjunction with the Op Shop.

It will include wood turning display and sales, hot drinks and an Aladdin's Cave of treasures in the grounds at Shed 22. Funds will be raised for Community Disaster Relief, with the focus currently on assisting those affected by the floods. They have really appreciated the community's donations and support of these events.

► The Sanctuary Park Church of Christ is located at 22 National Park Road, Nambour. You can learn more about their philosophies and work at www.spcfcn.org.au, as well as on Facebook, and expect to be warmly welcomed when attending their 9 am Sunday church service.

Church of Christ Pop Up Garage Sale to aid Community Disaster Relief

THERE'S a lot of coming and going at Shed 22, Sanctuary Park Church of Christ, where volunteers are busy preparing goods ready for a pop-up garage sale.

"It's amazing the variety of things that have been donated," said organizer Jenny Nixon. "We thought we had some great stuff last year, but this time there's everything including the kitchen sink!"

Proceeds from the sale will be used towards community disaster relief. "There are still people in need following the recent flooding and this is a way to assist those communities," Jenny said.

"Our Drop-In & Op Shop will also be open with proceeds going towards this project. Usually, funds raised through our Op Shop are dedicated to assisting the local Nambour community, so this will be a little different"

The Sale in Shed 22 will be held over three days from Thursday, Friday & Saturday June 2-4 from 8.30am -1.30pm each day. Refreshments will also be available through the Drop-In Space.

► Enquiries, please phone the Church office 5441 2833.

Nambour mother and son team Kaz Starr and Cam Morden: "Our passion has always been to bring boxing to more people, to give them the opportunity to train like a boxer."

Nambour UBX comes out swinging in fitness rebrand

Business Writup UBX: Boxing + Strength Nambour

THE pandemic had the fitness industry down for the count for a time, upending the business models of gyms and moving workouts outside or into the home.

Despite the challenges 12RND Fitness Nambour is coming out punching in 2022. It's rebranding to UBX Boxing + Strength and rethinking one of the world's fastest growing and evolving sports. The franchise was founded in 2016 by four-time world champion boxer Danny Green and Brisbane-based PT-turned-fitness IT entrepreneur Tim West.

Nambour mother and son team Kaz Starr and Cam Morden joined in 2017 and have just finished the massive rebrand along with 94 other clubs across Australia.

"We've taken boxing out of the ring, democratised it, and removed timetables and other barriers to members that are often experience at a 'traditional gym,'" said Kaz.

UBX (pronounced "you-box") Nambour has members of all ages and abilities - with their oldest members over 60 and with more than 65 percent female members - who love the sport for its vast physical, mental health and self-defence benefits.

"Our passion has always been to bring boxing to more people, to give them the opportunity to train like a boxer," said Cam. "It's important everyone gets the opportunity to reap the benefits of boxing, without the risk of getting hit back."

"It's about giving everyone the opportunity whether you're a new mum through to a professional athlete," said Kaz. "Cam and I, along with our coach Em, work one-on-one with our members to make sure they are getting the best workout possible."

► To celebrate the rebrand UBX: Boxing + Strength, in Mitchell Street Nambour, is hosting a free open day on May 28 and also giving away a 12-month membership to one lucky local member. To enter, either become a member of UBX, or if you're already a member, refer a friend to UBX.

THE Maleny Singers are bringing back Franz Lehár's timeless classic, The Merry Widow, with four performances over the middle two weekends of June at the Maleny Community Centre.

Directed and conducted by Margaret Taylor, the Singers are accompanied by a 25-piece orchestra and joined by dancers as the party scales new heights in this spectacular production.

The story is centred around a financial crisis in the fictional state of Pontevedro. Unless the newly-widowed Anna Glavari marries a Pontevedrian, the state will be plunged into bankruptcy.

Viera Keogh sings the widow, a role such Australian luminaries as Joan Sutherland, June Bronhill and Yvonne Kenny played many times. Viera is joined by Rod Johnson, singing the playboy Count Danilo, Ian McMaster as Baron Zeta, the Pontevedrian Ambassador in Paris, Evalee Sharples as the Baroness, and Ian Rix as Njegus, the Embassy Secretary.

With a witty libretto and stunning music brought back to prominence by Andre Rieu, you'll be swept along as the plot unfolds. Will Danilo declare his love for Anna and save Pontevedro? Or will the Frenchman, Camille, played by Colin Dunn, win the day, and condemn the state to financial ruin?

► Performances are June 11 and 12 and June 18 and 19 at the Maleny Community Centre. Tickets are selling in Maleny Information Centre and Trybooking.com/BZBED.

Social media campaign to help multicultural women

NAMBOUR Community Centre has launched a social media campaign this week to help raise awareness and put an end to the different forms of Domestic and Family Violence (DFV) against women of all ages, cultures and backgrounds.

Starting Monday and running throughout May – which is Domestic and Family Violence month – the campaign is specifically targeted at multicultural women.

Nambour Community Centre is sharing the series of posts and information on its facebook page.

'We want women to know that they have rights, that there is support available and they are not alone'

"There are 18 slides altogether that will be posted over the next 18 days," said Settlement Engagement & Transition Support Worker Linda Dennis, who created the campaign along with Carmen Ler from Apex Business Elevation and Hannah Appleby.

"They are grouped into topics of financial abuse, deportation, control and isolation, and criticising and insults. The slides are based around issues multicultural women have talked to me about in my work at the Centre.

"This campaign is like no other. It has pictures of multicultural women in it. It aims to empower women, and to get women from multicultural background to start talking about DFV within their communities and with their family and friends.

Linda said the campaign tried to take a delicate approach to a complex issue. "We want women to know that they have rights, that there is support available and they are not alone," she said.

WHAT A WONDERFUL HUMAN

How good is it when you meet someone who is calm, caring, sincere & ready to share their experiences to make your life a little easier. When we first met Monica we both said as we walked away "that's who I want to buy a home off & hope she gets something." Monica's open & honest approach was invaluable in the process. She was genuine & forthcoming with any questions along the way. Highly recommend Monica & Roger.

RangeCare Volunteers help drive exceptional aged care

Business Writeup: RangeCare

SINCE its beginnings in 1986, RangeCare has relied on the generosity of local volunteers to support the organisation in its efforts to provide the community with an exceptional level of care.

Today, RangeCare has an incredible team of over 150 volunteers who typically contribute over 10,000 hours of their time each year.

“This generosity allows RangeCare to support our clients in living their best life by delivering a comprehensive range of services,” said RangeCare CEO Greg Mannion.

May 16 to 22 is National Volunteer Week an opportune time for RangeCare to acknowledge its incredible volunteers and thank them for their generous contributions that have helped to shape RangeCare over the years.

“From all of us at RangeCare, we want to extend a huge thank you to every single volunteer at our organization,” said Greg.

“No matter how many hours you contribute, every role is important to be able to help our clients live independently and happily.

“You truly are such an integral part of – not only our organization – but the community in which we live. We are grateful for your commitment to serving our community.”

SCARS looking for forever homes during Make My May promo

SUNSHINE Coast Animal Rescue Shelter at Sippy Downs (SCARS) is running a Make my May promotion and calling on the public to help them clear the shelter by finding homes for the resident cats and dogs.

“It’s all about trying to clear the shelter to create more room for other cats and dogs in need to get their second chance,” said SCARS president Penny Brischke.

- All dogs over 6 months are only $99 to adopt.
- All cats over 6 months are only $29 to adopt.
- All standard adoption conditions apply (Does not include small breed dogs and puppies or kittens).

To help the cause Penny highlighted a cat and two dogs that would make great pets.

“Tiddles is a sweet nearly 3-year-old cat who has been in SCARS care for over 300 days,” said Penny. “She is only $29 to adopt. Tiddles has that Torti girl spunk that tortoise-shell owners know and love. We would love to see her settled – and with patience and a calm house, we believe her true personality will come through.”

Penny said Turbo and Sasha were like the odd-couple of dogs.

“Sasha and Turbo are best buddies and we need to find their forever home. Turbo is a nearly 7 year old Ridgeback-cross and his little mate Sasha is a 12 year old Kelpie-cross.

“They are currently in a foster home. Their carers can’t believe no-one has wanted to adopt them as they are the best-behaved dogs. They would enjoy an indoor/outdoor lifestyle.

“It’s important we keep this adorable odd couple together as Turbo relies on Sasha. She is like the calm and all-knowing big sister. Turbo is the biggest softie. He loves nothing more than a pat, cuddle and to be close to you. Sasha is his rock!

“And you can adopt them for just $149 during our Make My May promotion.”

• The Shelter is open Tuesday-Sunday from 10am-5pm, closed Mondays!

Sasha and Turbo are a team and are looking for a new home.

Drama and Dance Teachers Savannah Murphy and Deb Johnson with children from the classes held at Montville Hall.

Youth Theatre academy on the way up in Montville, Bli Bli

Business Writeup: Acting Up! Youth Theatre Academy

AFTER operating in Woombye for 15 successful years, Acting Up! Youth Theatre Academy has expanded classes to children in Montville and Bli Bli.

“Acting Up! has grown exponentially over the years and branched out in ways that even we would not have imagined possible,” said founding director Naomi Clasohm. “We started out running drama classes after school from the Drama room at Suncoast Christian College, and it just grew very organically from there”.

Naomi and her husband Andrew bring their formidable skills and experience in the dramatic arts to their students.

“My background is in acting - both on stage and in film, directing, writing and teaching, and Andrew is a professional photographer, videographer and camera teacher,” Naomi explained. “Our combined skill sets allow us to offer our students a unique breadth and depth of experience. We can take them through virtually every process involved in the performing arts and our students range from those who want to have fun with drama to those who are interested in pursuing the dramatic arts as a potential career”.

This year, Acting Up! has expanded classes to a new audience in Montville of five- to 18-year-olds.

“We decided to branch out to Montville and Bli Bli and have a new appeal to homeschooling families, as we can run classes during school hours as well,” Naomi said.

“We identified locations that are on the bus runs, and this enables students to come straight from school to us. This hasn’t always been an option for many families on the Range but now, it really is a wonderful alternative to after school care. Working parents no longer need to feel guilty that their children are missing out on this kind of opportunity”.

Naomi has engaged Deb Johnson and Savannah Murphy to teach the Montville classes.

“We are so excited to have such experienced teachers of this calibre,” Naomi said. “Both women are fully qualified primary teachers and are exceptionally gifted performers in dance, drama, musical theatre and singing, in their own right. As an added bonus, our students love them! They both have such an obvious passion for teaching”.

‘Small and cuddly’ the secret ingredients for tourism success

WHEN it comes to success on the tourism stage, it would appear that hinterland hotels excel in being “small and cuddly”, having taken out top spots for Best Small Hotel, Best Romance Hotel and Best B&B in the 2022 TripAdvisor Travellers’ Choice Awards Best of the Best.

Clearly, it is not how big the establishment is, it’s what it delivers that matters most to guests.

Perennial favourite small and cuddly hotel, The Falls Montville, won a swag of accolades. In fact the hinterland dominated Australian results for boutique experiential accommodation and punched above its weight in the international results as well

Here is a breakdown of the 2022 accomplishments:

- Best Small Hotel Australia: #1 The Falls Montville, #2 Bli Bli House Riverside Retreat, #7 Narrows Escape
- Best Small Hotel SouthPacific: #1 The Falls Montville, #3 Bli Bli House Riverside Retreat, #14 Narrows Escape
- Best Small Hotel World: #4 The Falls Montville, #15 Bli Bli House Riverside Retreat
- Best Romance Hotel South Pacific: #1 The Falls Montville, #2 Bli Bli House Riverside Retreat, #14 Narrows Escape
- Best Romance Hotel world: #3 The Falls Montville, #9 Bli Bli House Riverside Retreat
- Best Mountain Lodges and Resorts World: #5 The Falls Montville
- Best B&B’s Australia: #1 Blue Summit (Maleny), #5 Alaya Escape (Eudlo), #14 Avocado Grove (Flaxton)

Alan and Aryna Dryden from the Falls of Montville.

• Best B&B’s World: #23 Blue Summit (Maleny)
Visit Sunshine Coast CEO, Matt Stoeckel, said that the Sunshine Coast offered one of the most enviable ranges of high quality boutique accommodation in Australia.

“It’s great to see so many of our accommodation properties featured in the ‘Best of the Best’, and we look forward to welcoming new additions like HOLA in Eumundi and Maleny Lodge in future awards.”

What are the Travellers’ Choice awards?

The Travellers’ Choice awards honour travellers’ favourite destinations, hotels, restaurants, things to do, and beyond, based on the reviews and opinions collected from travellers and diners around the world on Tripadvisor over a 12-month period.

Red Bench highlights domestic & family violence

THE local organisation ‘Speak Up Now – Stop Domestic and Family Violence’ has initiated an opportunity for the Palmwoods community to be involved in raising awareness of the significant social issue.

The Palmwoods Community Garden, a joint venture involving the Palmwoods Community & Business Association and Palmwoods Uniting Church, has provided the setting of the garden for the placement of a Red Bench at 19 Hill Street. “The purpose of the red bench is simply to be visible and to initiate conversations about domestic and family violence,” a spokesperson said.

“Their motto is ‘Let’s change the ending’. In other words endings that do not end in death or further DFV. We want to help present the opportunity for better outcomes.”

► The launch will be followed by light refreshments under the shelter at 19 Hill Street. RSVP by May 18 by email: contactsoil.soul@gmail.com or phone Kay 0412 53902.

Jewellery to catch the eye, capture sentiment

Business Writeup: Set Together Jewellery

SET Together Jewellery's Lisa Clune knew from an early age that she wanted to become a jeweller.

"I have been fascinated by gemstones and have loved drawing and design for as long as I can remember," said Lisa who recently set up a studio in Nambour. "I went into jewellery making and design straight out of year 12, and every day I feel so lucky to have found my passion so early in my life".

Lisa grew up in New Zealand and went to jewellery school at the end of high school.

"My training was in traditional goldsmithing and jewellery design and technique. All day, every day, I was at the bench learning the art of fine jewellery making," Lisa explained. "It was quite intense and proved to be fantastic grounding for my first experiences working for master jewellers in Melbourne".

At the end of her formal training, Lisa moved to Melbourne where she went to work for Master Jeweller, Frank Fedele.

"When I first arrived in Melbourne, I worked for Frank and a diamond dealer, and it was the most wonderful experience. After two years, I became the main jeweller in Frank's business and had the opportunity to create some incredible pieces," she said.

Lisa moved to Nambour last year and founded her own studio, Set Together Jewellery.

Over the years, Lisa has continued her education by studying gemology (the scientific study of gemstones), and is now a certified gemologist.

"I could talk for days about gemstones," said Lisa. "Every gemstone tells its own story, from when and where it was formed, to its mineral composition. And because of the mineral composition and crystal structure of gemstones, they are not only visually beautiful, they have all sorts of applications in science. They are an endless source of fascination to me. I source gems from around the world and have personal relationships with my gem merchants".

Lisa is not alone in this obsession. Humanity has always been fascinated by and in awe of gems, gold and silver.

"The earliest piece of jewellery discovered is 150,000 years old," said Lisa. "Long before agriculture, humans were adorning themselves with jewellery. And I think this is what I love the most about what I do.

"Jewellery is so intensely personal and can be such a beautiful expression of personality and creativity".

Remodelling jewellery keeps history and sentiment alive

Lisa designs and makes new jewellery, such as wedding and engagement rings, and has an incredible talent for remodelling gold jewellery.

"I think this is my favourite thing to do," said Lisa. "It is so exciting to take existing jewellery and turn it into something new. It adds to its character and story in a way that is extremely gratifying. And sometimes a client will bring me multiple pieces of jewellery that they rarely wear, and I combine them into one stunning piece that they will cherish".

The design process starts with a conversation about preferred styles.

"I weigh the jewellery to be remodelled and then I begin the redesign," Lisa explained. "I present clients with three initial concepts and we refine from there. My drawings make the design as clear as possible. Generally, it takes three to four weeks to complete the process.

I personally like modern art deco style, but in terms of what I create, I enjoy anything a bit different.

"My aim is to bring history together by creating new family heirlooms while keeping the sentiment alive. I love how stories are told and continue through jewellery."

► For convenience, Lisa visits clients in their homes to get the process started. You can view her designs at www.settogether.com or on Instagram at www.instagram.com/settogether_jewellery

The Sunshine Coast Youth Orchestra in action recently.

BOQ helps Youth Orchestra to shine

THE annual Sunshine Coast Youth Orchestra camp was held at the QCCC facility in Mapleton on May 6, 7 and 8 with more than 220 kids aged 8-17 years performing a concert for friends and family.

Established in 1989, the Sunshine Coast Youth Orchestra (SCYO) is a non-profit organisation that provides orchestral music opportunities for young musicians up to 18 years of age.

Music Director Maria Salmon leads a team of six professional conductors. The Orchestra draws talented young musicians from across the Sunshine Coast & Hinterland areas into one or more of seven ensembles.

Nambour BOQ Owner-Manager Matt Wall was a keen observer of the concert. Matt's Bank of Queensland Nambour & Hinterland branch provides an annual Bursary and sponsorship to help musicians and their families participate in the program.

Matt said he was proud to support the orchestra and encourage and harness children's musical interests.

"BOQ backs Owner-Managers like myself to support their communities with organisations that might be close to their hearts," he said. "The reason I do this is when I was growing up I had to give up my music as the family didn't have the funds to support me, so this is one small way I can give back."

Matt said the SCYO offers musicians from novice to advanced placement into string ensembles for all levels, bands including symphonic winds, stage band and a full symphonic orchestra which provide opportunities for musically-minded youth.

"The quality of the performances from the SCYO is truly phenomenal - it is hard to believe the kids are so young," Matt said.

"The Orchestra collaborates across Queensland with community and professional orchestras alike to help kids thrive. It's a wonderful organisation. I'm so proud to support it."

To find out more about SCYO please see visit www.scyo.org.au or the Facebook page. The next public performance is a themed concert Movie Music on June 4 starting at 3pm in the Calgaly Church in Buderim.

National Volunteer Week recognises emergency personnel

QUEENSLAND'S emergency services volunteers have assisted communities through extreme weather and disasters, and during National Volunteer Week (May 16 to 22) they have been recognised for their hard work and dedication.

Queensland Fire and Emergency Services (QFES) Commissioner Greg Leach said volunteers from the State Emergency Service (SES), Rural Fire Service (RFS) and Fire and Rescue Service (FRS) played an integral role in supporting Queenslanders during times of need.

"Our volunteers have laced up their boots and spent the past week out in force, as parts of the state were once again hit with severe weather," Mr Leach said.

"They have been absolutely incredible, working around the clock to respond to hundreds of requests for assistance, evacuate residents and assist with flood clean-up.

"National Volunteer Week, which includes Wear Orange Wednesday (WOW Day), is an opportunity for everyone to thank every volunteer for their dedication and commitment to supporting local communities.

"It is a particularly important week for QFES, which has approximately 35,000 volunteers across the RFS, SES and FRS."

Mr Leach commended volunteers for their commitment to supporting communities and expressed his gratitude for their ongoing service.

"QFES volunteers are always willing to assist their communities, and often go above and beyond to get the job done."

2022 Queensland State Titles Men's Open Champion Sam Bowman claimed his 2022 title at Flow Bouldering climbing gym, Forest Glen.

Sports Climbing reaches new heights at Forest Glen

A record-breaking number of top athletes participated in the Sports Climbing Queensland State Titles championship event last weekend at Forest Glen's Flow Bouldering premium climbing gym.

Lucy Stirling from Brisbane won the Queensland State Title 2022 Womens' Open competition. It was Lucy's last Australian competition before heading overseas for the IFSC (International Federation of Sport Climbing) Boulder and Lead World Cup Season.

The Queensland State Titles 2022 Men's Open competition was won by Sam Bowman from Brisbane.

Both winners qualify for the 2022 Australian Boulder Nationals, potentially the World Cup and the Olympics.

It was the second year running that Flow Bouldering climbing gym hosted the event. Sports Climbing is one of the fastest-growing sports at competitive and amateur levels.

"It was thrilling to see such top-level climbing" said Operations Manager Angel Freeman.

Flow is operated by internationally-experienced climbers James Hembury with partner and Angel, both of whom are Sunshine Coast locals.

"This vibrant community hub provides fitness and mental health, a great social network, plus local favourite Guru Life coffee and food," said Angel.

"Seeing world-class climbing here on the Sunshine Coast is such a motivator for all local climbers, especially the youngsters and Flow's Youth Squad," said James.

Four common scams to avoid

by Matt Wall BOQ Nambour & Hinterland Owner-Manager
nambour&hinterland@boq.com.au

UNFORTUNATELY, people all around the world get scammed out of their hard-earned money every day. Here are some of the most common scams we see, and how to avoid them:

Dating & Romance

Con artists use fake social media or dating app profiles to try and enter into a relationship with the victim, in an attempt to get their money.

Protect Yourself: Never give money to anyone you've only met online, even if you feel like you've established a level of trust.

Threat & Penalty

These involve the scammer calling or sending mail and emails claiming you owe money, when in fact you don't.

Protect Yourself: Always connect the dots and try to recall if you have any connection to the alleged missed payment or fine. Follow-up with the entity threatening you and request documentation of any claims. If the threat was made via email, don't open any documents attached to it.

Unexpected money

Someone will contact you and inform you of money owed to you, and that you need to make an upfront payment to transfer the funds, which they will then disappear with.

Protect Yourself: The chances that a large sum of money unexpectedly falls into your lap are low. Be extremely wary of anyone trying to give you money, especially if they need you to send them money first.

Computer and mobile

Scammers may deploy spyware and malware that capture everything you type and or see on your computer, as well as ransomware, which locks or encrypts your computer until you pay a ransom.

Protect Yourself: Never download files, open attachments, or click links from untrustworthy websites or emails. Be sure to keep your passwords secure and regularly updated.

Baseball bats at the ready in Voterland

READ, watch or listen to the major media outlets, and you'd think the Federal election only had two players involved.

But out there in Voterland, one senses huge dissatisfaction with the so-called two majors.

And how convenient that State and Federal governments have called a timeout on all things Covid19 at this point.

No doubt they are hoping voters across all parties will forget all the coercion and disruption of the past two years.

Just six weeks ago, governments and their bully-boy partners - Big Pharma and medical registration bodies like AHPRA and the AMA - were warning of a continuing health catastrophe.

And now, barely a word in the media. Politicians don't want an unpopular medical controversy raging while they try to convince us they deserve another three years in Canberra.

But back to the upcoming election.

It's clear from the surveys that both the LNP, Labor and the Greens are leaking votes in a big way, such is the level of disappointment at how the LNP in government and the ALP/Greens in opposition handled the Covid situation so appallingly.

Like all good poker players, governments throughout the country kept a straight face while hundreds of thousands of protestors took to capital city streets.

Meanwhile, there was nothing to report by major media outlets as major population centres everywhere erupted.

For weeks the left-leaning ABC insisted only 10,000 attended the huge Canberra rallies, which clearly featured crowds in excess of 200,000.

On the other side of the media coin, the Murdoch dominated papers and SkyNews outlets have been shameless in almost total support for the LNP.

But arguably, one of the most telling political spoilers contributing to loss of political confidence and loyalty for the LNP and the ALP, is their almost manic support of vaccine mandates.

This has been highlighted by bully-boy and coercion tactics, resulting in small businesses going to wall in their thousands, as government measures "froze" and locked down the day-to-day life of all Australians.

Tens of thousands lost their jobs, because they chose not to take an unproven and, ironically, largely ineffective, experimental vaccine.

Nurses, police, fire-fighters, teachers, teacher-aides, aged care workers, and many others refused the jab and paid the price with huge job losses.

Doctors, despite many having major misgivings over the jab, were forced to toe the line or face medical deregistration.

So it is the Freedom parties which look set to benefit from these leaking votes from the LNP, Labor and the Greens.

The UAP, the LibDems, One Nation, IMOP and others are encouraging voters to put the majors in the last three spots on the ballot paper.

As one commentator remarked, "Once you are in the privacy of your voting booth, you can vote with freedom, far from the bully-boy tactics raging outside."

- Scott Nicol, Nambour

Nature Watch

Jewel Beetle with eggs

REGULAR Nature Watch contributor Don McGlusky grew up on a farm in the 1940s and his family grew cotton among other crops. The cotton had to be hand-picked, he said. "It was also before the introduction of insecticides, which killed everything. Working amongst the cotton bushes we came in contact with a myriad of insect species - the good, the bad and the ugly. Jewel Beetles were most prevalent. Most are beautiful with a metallic sheen. Their larvae live in the soft stems of plants. I found this one on a Pentis bush in our garden and it is the only occasion I have seen Jewel Beetle eggs."

Charity Golf Day postponed till 17 June

BECAUSE of the unseasonal weather, the Charity Golf Day planned for 13 May at the Maleny Golf Club is now scheduled for Friday 17 June.

"Our sponsors were secured, and we had reached our target for players. It's been an outstanding response from the community," said Auxiliary Past President Jan Cornfoot. "With the change of date, it's possible that some players will be unavailable, so we are keen to seek others who will join in the fun on 17 June."

A BBQ breakfast will now be offered at 8am ahead of a 9.30am start.

Golfers of all standards are welcome to participate. Cost $90 per person for a Shotgun Start 18- holes 4 Ball Ambrose. Includes team buggy, BBQ breakfast, snacks and cash bar afterwards. Book a team of four or the club will allocate individual players to a team.

The Maleny Hospital Auxiliary will benefit from the event. The Auxiliary supports many projects for the hospital, including a major refurbishment of the Palliative Care Rooms which will be completed at significant cost. If you are unable to play, your donation to the Auxiliary will always be welcomed.

Tawny Frogmouth

ALAN Dryden from The Falls Montville sent this picture of a very special visitor - a tawny frogmouth chick. The little one was snapped on the cottage access boardwalk. Tawny Frogmouths have a regular breeding season, but birds in more arid areas may breed in response to heavy rains. Both sexes incubate the eggs. The male sits during the day, but both sexes share sitting at night. The nest is a loose platform of sticks, which is usually placed on a horizontal forked tree branch.
